OUR PROGRAMS

Public Rhetorics and Community Engagement (PhD) and Rhetoric and Professional Writing (MA) are interdisciplinary programs housed in the English Department at UWM. They provide students with a broad background in rhetoric and writing studies while offering students opportunities to apply that knowledge in pedagogical, professional, and/or community spaces. According to their individual interests and goals, students can develop in-depth knowledge of community engagement, composition pedagogy, contemporary rhetorical theory, cultural rhetorics, digital rhetorics, multimodal composition, professional writing, rhetorics of science and medicine, technical communication, or writing program administration. Most importantly, the rhetoric concentrations aim to develop a community of researchers, teachers, writers, and administrators who support each other's work, share ideas, and participate in shaping our program goals.
