Activities and Strategies for Successful Online Writing Instruction and Administration

The Online Writing Instruction Community (www.owicommunity.org) would like to invite you to join their 2021 virtual symposiums! After an overwhelmingly positive response to our August 2020 and September 2020 symposiums, we are pleased to bring you another series of virtual symposiums in August 2021 and September 2021.

For both of this year's symposiums we asked our presenters to focus on activities and strategies for successfully facilitating fully asynchronous, fully synchronous, or hybrid/blended online writing courses.

This year's presentations will be short, practical, and to the point. The presenters will focus their talks on one practice-based activity, concept, or process that instructors or administrators could implement in their online/hybrid writing courses or programs with little or no modification.
